General Synopsis for Episode #2316

In this episode a Funny Car Driver, a beach volleyball player and a skateboarder describe their varied paths towards success in each of the chosen fields of athletic endeavor. Each guest shares their personal side of their journey from their first thoughts of seeking a professional career to reaching their goals and beyond. John Force is a sixteen times Funny Car Champion with twenty wins as an owner. With humor and seriousness, he tells the audience, “The car does the running for me, it protects me, makes me look good and some days I make it look bad.” When racing he has to find his mind set, turn off the switch when he gets into the car, he can’t take problems with him because the body has to react with 300 mph in less than 4 seconds. Beach volleyball player Ryan Doherty started his sports journey as a baseball player from college ball to the minor leagues. It took Ryan 4 years to become a pro beach volleyball player with consistency, lots of practice, and lots of preparation. He trains on the beach practicing 2 hours a day 3 times a week in season and with 3 - 4 days of conditioning. He talks about strategies he and his partner use during a game against their opponent to bait them into something they want them to do. Theotis Beasley learned about skateboarding at a family get together. He learned that it is all about timing when kicking the board out from under your feet and landing back on it. He feels blessed to travel the world and see things that started with a piece of wood with 4 wheels. He feels that it is important to take the time to talk with his fans to encourage them and help them with skateboarding.
