General Synopsis for Episode #1102

In this episode, committed and talented ‘young icons’ share their stories of dedication and success. The guests open up the personal side of their journey and what made them decide to pursue their goals. Elli Smith is a 15-year-old who sings all types of music from opera to the national anthem. Ellie credits her classical training to improving her singing skills as well as the experience of singing the national anthem all over the country in front of large crowds. Being bullied in school, Ellie has started an anti bullying campaign. She delivers her message ‘be yourself, don’t let anyone or anything get to you’ by writing a song and talking with elementary kids. The Oprah Show exposed Tyler Page to the issue of child trafficking in Ghana, West Africa. He wanted to do something about getting kids out of slavery so he held a car wash raising $1100, which would free 4.7 kids. He has created an organization called Kids Helping Kids to raise money for other charities in other parts of the world. He states, “It makes me feel great because I’m impacting other people’s lives”. Kiara Nowlin is a dedicated athlete who works hard in two competitive sports, gymnastics and cheerleading. She has been described as humble and wants to be a role model for others by giving back. Eleven-year-old actor Maxim Knight shares that he worked hard to become an actor, “I don’t take shortcuts, I give everything I have”. After participating in the Read Across America program, he wants other kids to participate in the program and to read for pleasure sharing that it opens up your imagination.
